

Tim Hannan

BA(Hons) MPsych(Sport) MPsych(Clinical) MSc(ClinNeuropsych) MCogSc MAPS

Tim Hannan is a sport psychologist and clinical psychologist who has provided sport psychology services for 12 years. He has worked with individuals and teams from a wide variety of sports at diverse levels, ranging from national representatives to junior development.

Tim is a senior lecturer at the University of Western Sydney, where he teaches in the areas of sport psychology and clinical psychology, and he maintains a private practice in NSW and WA. He holds qualifications in sport psychology, clinical psychology, clinical neuropsychology, and cognitive science, and is currently completing doctoral studies. Tim is the current NSW chair of the Australian Psychological Society's College of Sport Psychologists, and is a member of the college's national executive committee.

Tim has lectured widely to other psychologists on topics in clinical and sport psychology, and has presented over 100 workshops and seminars around Australia and overseas, including presentations at each of the past nine annual conferences of the Australian Psychological Society.

Tim's own background is in rugby union and cricket, and he has worked with individuals and teams at elite levels in these sports, as well as providing sport psychology services to over twenty other sports.

Email: tim@aspn.com.au